

NEW CAMDEN ROAD

To Connect the Ohio River and West Virginia Central.

WORK ON THE SURVEY PUSHED

By the Engineers Near New Martinsville—Special Policemen on Freight Trains—Wheeling's Quality as a Market—About the Corn Crop Failure—Other News from the Railroads.

Under the direction of Chief Engineer Thomas Pettigrew, of the Ohio River Railroad Company, a corps of engineers is rapidly completing the survey along the proposed route of the West Virginia, Ohio & Western railroad. The engineers are now at work on that portion of the line between New Martinsville and Clarksburg. This road when built will be a feeder to two of the Camden roads in West Virginia, the Ohio River road and the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh line. The new road will run from Belington, Barbour county, the present terminus of the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh, along the Valley and Buckhannon rivers and Elk creek to Clarksburg, thence on the west fork of the Monongahela river to the mouth of Ten Mile creek, and then along Ten Mile and Fishing creeks to New Martinsville, on the Ohio river.

The promoters of this line expect to realize great expectations. The road will run through a country rich in coal, striking the Pittsburgh vein of soft coal, said to be the largest unbroken field in West Virginia. The first meeting of the stockholders of the company will be held at Clarksburg, where the principal offices are located, on August 27.

The amount of live stock and produce that is going up the Ohio River road, through Wheeling, and to the Pittsburgh market, is said never to have been so great. The Smoky City market is considered a better one among the farmers than Wheeling, and the consequence is that the "first pick" of everything is not seen in Wheeling.

A dispatch from Pittsburgh says that Superintendent Pitcairn, of the Pennsylvania railroad, will put special policemen on all freight trains to arrest persons stealing rides. Since the Coxey movement began, he says, the mania for stealing rides has grown to such an alarming extent that more people are now riding on freight than on passenger trains. For months past this wholesale train ride stealing has resulted in an average of one accidental death daily on the road.

The Western Pennsylvania coal operators who ship by rail have formed an organization called the Pittsburgh Association of Railroad Coal Operators.

A general manager, in speaking of the alleged failure of the corn crop, said that it was nonsense, there would be plenty of corn. Had rains been abundant corn would have sold at ten cents per bushel, and the roads would have gotten only short hauls; now prices will be such that it can be shipped at a profit to the producer and to the roads for long distances. As compared with years when the corn crop in all parts of the country is heavy, the present conditions, he said, were favorable to the railroads as far as crops are concerned.

It is rumored that the Pennsylvania road will consolidate some of its trains between New York and Chicago unless there is an early revival of business. The southwestern lines of the Pennsylvania system are now carrying more passengers than the northwestern system, in proportion to the business of years past.

APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC.

The Good Work of the Woman's Union Benevolent Society—Shall It Go On?

The ladies on the Woman's Union Benevolent Society have drawn up the following appeal to the public:

It is generally known that on January 3, 1883, there was a "Union Benevolent Society" organized in our city, its object being to aid the poor without distinction of creed, nationality or color, and to elevate them to a better life. This society has lived now for over eleven years, and has not failed in all that time to hold regular monthly meetings, at which time reports are read from each ward, giving the full name of each person helped, and the amount given. Our constitution requires us to investigate each case, giving aid only after such investigation, unless called in a sudden, extreme case, and then but the once until looked after carefully.

We have been called "a detective society" by some who understand our mode of giving. Many times have our members gone out, in cold and in heat, up and down rickety stairs, looking up desperate, needy cases, and none but those faithful ones, who have never drawn back, can know the blessed feeling that rewards such self-denying work.

For a few years we have been financially aided without calling on the public, but in the past three months we have had an unusual drain on our treasury, much greater than in some winter months, owing to the great financial depression, no doubt.

We have as a society worked and lived by faith, our dark hours would be followed by bright sunshine, cheering and giving us fresh courage. We have a few kind friends who never forget to send us their yearly contributions, for which we feel very grateful, and truly they are "laying up treasures above." The words each get their monthly appropriations as required, some words come up nobly. The Seventh is our "banner ward," giving much and getting little in return, as it has fewer actual needy ones.

Now, we, as a society have arrived at a critical time. Our treasury is depleted. We ask, what shall we do in view of the coming winter? Can we close our books and turn away from those appealing for aid, some of whom have looked to us for years, or shall we appeal to you for help? The membership fee is fifty cents a year for women and one dollar for men. Now, who would refuse to be a member for the amount? We do not depend alone on membership fees, but hope to obtain some larger amounts from those whom the Lord has abundantly blessed. May this appeal enable the society to go on with its efficient work in the earnest wish of all its members.

Mrs. M. C. Wilson is the faithful and efficient treasurer of the society. Any money sent in her will be thankfully received and used where it will do the most good.

IN ITS THIRD WEEK.

The Attendance of Marshall County Teachers Less

AT THE INSTITUTE THAN BEFORE.

But Some New Faces are Seen—Interesting Papers Yesterday, on the Verb, Physiology and West Virginia History—The Last Named Subject Starts an Interesting Discussion and Leads to a Challenge to Joint Debate.

The third week of the Marshall county teachers' institute opened yesterday morning at Moundsville at 9:45. Many new faces were present, but the attendance was not so large as the two preceding weeks. The exercises were opened by singing, reading of the scriptures and prayer by J. T. King. The roll was then called, followed by a good talk on physiology, pointing out many common mistakes that are made in teaching this branch, and giving some good practical advice on the care of the body. Mr. King urged the importance of daily bathing, and claimed that this age of the world is far behind on this subject, and that there ought to be public bath houses in every city, so that boys would not have to expose themselves in order to perform this life-preserving duty.

This was followed by grammar, by D. T. Williams. The lesson was on verbs. This is one of the most difficult parts of speech and was treated in a very thorough manner. Messrs. Williams, Powell, King and a few others had quite a lively discussion over the transitive verb.

At 1:30 p. m. Mr. Talbot gave the first talk on penmanship. Mr. Talbot is a good penman and thoroughly understands how to teach. The topics he talked on were position, movement and form.

Mr. E. Bonar talked on physiology. The talk was principally on how to rear children. Mr. Bonar seems to be very well acquainted with the subject and handled it in an able manner. He also talked of the composition and different parts of the body.

Prof. D. T. Williams took up book-keeping. A set of books was opened, and will be run through in a practical, business-like way.

This was followed by West Virginia History, by W. S. Powell. The lesson was on the origin of the state and the later history. This lesson brought forth a very lively and warm discussion as to the constitutionality of the formation of West Virginia, between Hon. J. Alex. Ewing and Prosecuting Attorney Parsons. The county superintendent called them down and they did not get to finish. Parsons challenged Ewing to meet him at any time and at any place on the question.

THE ELOPHES WERE HERE.

After Being Married at New Cumberland—Now They Are Forgiven.

Yesterday's Pittsburgh Post says: Edward C. Burgo and Miss Della Earley, whose parents reside at 641 Wylie avenue, were married last Wednesday afternoon at New Cumberland, W. Va., and thereby hangs a tale. The groom is a brother of James Francis Burgo, the young politician, and is well known as one of the best stenographers in the two cities. The bride is an accomplished young lady, sixteen years of age, and noted for her beauty. Her parents objected to the marriage on account of her age, and would not allow it under any circumstances.

When Mr. Burgo discovered that it was impossible to get their consent to the wedding, he arranged with the young lady to elope, and Wednesday last was the appointed day. Prior to this, however, he wrote to the clerk of courts in New Cumberland, telling him they would be there, and asking him to have a minister in the court house to marry them. They left home under the pretext of going shopping, and took the 12:40 train on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road, arriving there at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A few minutes later they were married, and left that afternoon for Wheeling, where they stopped at the Hotel Windsor for two days. Edward Ewing and Nellie Hangan accompanied them as witnesses, and came home the same afternoon.

The couple wrote to Mr. Earley, acquainting him of what they had done, and although much displeased, he finally relented and wrote to his daughter to come home, as she had his forgiveness. They arrived here on Friday evening, and stopped at Ewing's hotel, on Fifth avenue. They will remain there a few days and then go to housekeeping in the East End. Many friends called yesterday to tender their congratulations.
